THE maritime, cargo, and logistics fraternity gathered in full strength at the Grand Ballroom of Hotel JW Marriott Mumbai Sahar on Friday, August 1, 2025, for Exim India's Maritime And Logistics Awards 2025 (MALA 2025), the 15th edition. The evening was a vibrant celebration of excellence and collaboration, where industry leaders were recognised across more than 50 categories, and meaningful conversations illuminated the path forward.

A packed house comprising government officials, regulators, logistics service providers, shippers, consignees and other stakeholders applauded the achievements of companies and individuals who took home the coveted trophies and certificates.

Introducing a Legacy Honour: Shri Nagindas Modi Memorial Award

The gala celebration had its standout moments. Mr Shashi Kiran Shetty, Founder and Chairman of the Allcargo Group and an industry doyen, received the maiden Shri Nagindas Modi Memorial Award. Introducing the honour, Mr Mukesh Oza, Group President and CEO of the Samsara Group, highlighted how, long before computers and digital publishing, Late Shri Nagindas Modi envisioned a dedicated publication carrying shipping schedules and sector-specific news, which was an immediate success.

He said that this award will be conferred annually upon individuals who, like Shri Nagindas Modi, rose from modest beginnings to achieve great success through grit, perseverance and unwavering determination.

Mr Shashi Kiran Shetty was a truly deserving recipient. In his acceptance speech, he reflected on Allcargo's journey, emphasising the importance of customer-centricity, empowering talent and resilience in challenging times.

Recognition for Lifetime Achievement

Two stalwarts received Lifetime Achievements awards:

- Lifetime Achievement Award (Public) – Mr Rajiv Jalota, former IAS in the rank of Secretary, Government of India
- Lifetime Achievement Award (Private) – Mr Lalit Jobanputra, JW Ventures Pvt. Ltd

Theme reflections

Earlier in the evening, industry stalwarts shared insights on the event's theme, India on the Growth Path – Ports to Prosperity, offering perspectives on infrastructure, policy, and innovation driving the sector's evolution.

Mr Gopal Krishna, IAS, Former Shipping Secretary, Ministry of Shipping, Government of India, and Chairman of the Conciliation and Settlement Committee (CSC), commenced the proceedings by warmly welcoming the distinguished guests and luminaries from the shipping and logistics industry. In his address, he emphasised the significance of the recently passed Bill of Lading Act, highlighting its role in modernising maritime trade practices. He noted that this legislative reform will bolster India's position in global commerce by streamlining shipping procedures and minimising disputes—an essential step toward establishing India as a global maritime leader.

He also commended the government's ongoing efforts to develop infrastructure of international standards and enhance ease of doing business. However, he underscored the urgent need for a robust dispute resolution mechanism within the logistics and shipping sectors. Citing a recent case, he referred to the arrest of a vessel in Kerala following a court order. The Kerala government had filed an admiralty suit seeking significant compensation for environmental damage, remediation efforts, and economic losses suffered by the fishing community. In response, the Kerala High Court ordered the arrest of the sister ship of the vessel that had sunk off the Kerala coast, causing a major spill. The court mandated that this vessel remain detained until the shipping company either deposits the full compensation amount or provides adequate security. While acknowledging the seriousness of the environmental impact, Mr Gopal Krishna cautioned that such arrests could strain relationships with international shipping lines. He strongly advocated for the establishment of a pre-litigation dispute resolution framework to address such matters before they escalate to judicial intervention.

Mr Lenny Abrao, Managing Director of the Abrao Group of Companies, delivered an insightful theme presentation on India's expanding international trade and the pivotal role of ports in driving national prosperity. He emphasised that the Indian government is playing a catalytic role in realising this vision, stating unequivocally, "It's no brainer—ports lead to prosperity, and this transformation is unfolding in India."

Mr Abrao projected that the port and logistics sector is expected to generate 40 million jobs by the end of 2025, underscoring the direct correlation between port development and national growth. He elaborated on how ports serve as engines of economic advancement by:

- Facilitating international trade and boosting GDP
- Creating direct and indirect employment across sectors such as transportation and manufacturing
- Attracting foreign direct investment and fostering innovation

Perspectives on the event theme and more were provided by (from left) Mr Atit Mahajan, Mr Gopal Krishna, Mr Unmesh Sharad Wagh, Mr Lenny Abrao and Mr Dushyant Mulani

- Promoting regional development and infrastructure expansion

He also shared ambitious economic forecasts, noting that India is poised to become a $7 trillion economy by 2030, and potentially a $34 trillion economy by 2047. For 2030, the IMF estimates place the US at $34 trillion, China at $26 trillion, and India between $6.8 and $7.3 trillion, potentially making India the third-largest economy globally.

This growth, Mr Abrao noted, will be fuelled by strong domestic demand, a youthful population and sustained economic reforms. However, he stressed the importance of job creation to match India's demographic expansion, echoing the IMF's call for reforms in education, labour markets, and the business environment.

Mr Abrao highlighted the need for greater government support to boost manufacturing exports. He pointed to India's strategic efforts to diversify its export basket, with emerging markets such as Brazil, Africa and Russia gaining prominence.

A notable achievement he cited was India's rise to become the fourth-largest exporter of marine products, up from eighth place in 2014-15, driven by improved practices and infrastructure.

Mr Atit Mahajan, Managing Director of CMA CGM Agencies (India) Pvt. Ltd. delivered a compelling special address on the expanding opportunities for global shipping lines in India—now the world's fastest-growing major economy—despite the challenges posed by the current geopolitical landscape.

He emphasised India's strategic importance to CMA CGM, noting the company's longstanding association with the country. A landmark moment in this partnership was the launch of CMA CGM Vitoria, the company's first Indian-flagged vessel, marking a significant milestone in India's maritime ambitions. Formerly registered under the Malta flag, the vessel was reflagged in Mumbai and formally welcomed at the Nhava Sheva Freeport Terminal. With a capacity of 2,592 TEU, the CMA CGM Vitoria is now part of the group's BIGEX network, offering weekly calls from Nhava Sheva and Mundra.

This move positions CMA CGM as the first major foreign shipping line to register a container vessel under the Indian flag, reflecting growing international confidence in India's shipping ecosystem and supporting its emergence as a global maritime power. Mr Mahajan announced that more vessels will be registered under the Indian flag in the coming months, further strengthening CMA CGM's presence in the country.

He highlighted that CMA CGM currently operates 19 weekly direct services connecting Indian ports to key global destinations, including Europe, the United States, Africa and the Middle East. This expansion aligns with the company's commitment to India's growth and its active participation in strategic initiatives such as the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor (IMEC). CMA CGM is leveraging its strong regional presence and modern, alternative-energy-ready fleet to support the IMEC project.

Beyond shipping, CMA CGM is deepening its investment in India through its logistics subsidiary, CEVA Logistics, which has a robust nationwide footprint. The company is also exploring opportunities in India's ship recycling ecosystem, particularly in Alang, and is looking to source containers and green steel locally. Plans are underway to establish maritime R&D and innovation hubs in key Indian cities, reinforcing CMA CGM's long-term commitment to India's maritime future..

Mr Mahajan praised the Indian government's proactive stance in promoting shipbuilding and port modernisation, citing initiatives such as the revamped Shipbuilding Financial Assistance Policy (SBFAP) and the newly launched Maritime Development Fund (MDF). These policies aim to boost domestic shipbuilding, increase the share of Indian-flagged vessels in global cargo movement, and encourage sustainable, green shipbuilding practices.

However, he acknowledged the challenges facing the industry, including the Red Sea crisis, rising global rivalries, and supply chain disruptions, all of which contribute to escalating costs for shippers. In closing, Mr Mahajan called for collaborative efforts across the industry to navigate these challenges, emphasising that unity and innovation are essential to sustaining growth in the face of global uncertainty.

Mr Dushyant Mulani, Chairman of the Federation of Freight Forwarders' Associations in India (FFFAI) and Director of Khimji Poonja Freight Forwarders Pvt. Ltd. delivered a special address highlighting the transformative potential of the Bills of Lading Act, 2025 for Logistics Service Providers (LSPs) and the broader trade ecosystem.

He began by recalling a pivotal meeting in 2015 between FFFAI and Mr Nitin Gadkari, then Union Minister for Road Transport, Highways and Shipping, during which Mr Gadkari acknowledged the feasibility of electronic delivery orders, a concept that has now come to fruition with the passage of the new legislation. Mr Mulani described the bill as a game-changer for the shipping industry, likening its impact to the revolutionary role of UPI in India's digital payments landscape.

The Bills of Lading Act, 2025, he emphasised, offers several benefits for LSPs and the broader trade ecosystem. It simplifies legal language, reduces ambiguities in shipping documentation, and aligns India's maritime laws with international standards, fostering smoother global trade. This leads to reduced litigation risks, faster cargo turnaround times, and enhanced efficiency across the supply chain. Furthermore, the Bill lays the groundwork for the eventual adoption of electronic bills of lading (e-BLs), promising further efficiency gains in the future. Mr Mulani also pointed out that the Bill will benefit the wider trade with increased transparency and trust. Its emphasis on clarity and alignment with international standards can foster greater trust and transparency in shipping transactions, benefiting both shippers and carriers. By clarifying rights and obligations and streamlining dispute resolution processes, the Bill can help reduce the costs associated with legal disputes related to shipping documentation. The simplified documentation, faster cargo handling, and reduced litigation costs can lead to a more efficient and streamlined supply chain, benefiting all stakeholders in the trade ecosystem. The Bill's alignment with global norms and its focus on clarity can lead to greater predictability and reliability in international shipping, making it easier for businesses to plan and execute their trade activities. Mr Mulani added that by facilitating trade and making India a more attractive destination for international businesses, the bill can contribute to the country's economic growth and its ambition to become a global leader in maritime commerce.

Mr Unmesh Sharad Wagh, IRS, Chairperson of Jawaharlal Nehru Port Authority (JNPA) and CMD of Vadhvan Port Project Ltd (VPPL), delivered a powerful keynote address as Chief Guest, highlighting the transformative journey from JNPA to Vadhvan Port and its role in driving India's containerisation revolution.

He remarked that "big dreams need a bigger canvas," and Vadhvan Port is precisely that—designed to accommodate 24 million TEUs, it represents a quantum leap in India's maritime capacity. With a planned total capacity of 298 million metric tons (MMT) per annum, Vadhvan is set to become one of India's largest deep-water ports, significantly enhancing the country's standing among global maritime hubs.

He highlighted the strategic importance of Vadhvan Port:

Massive Container Capacity: 24 million TEUs will dramatically boost India's container handling capabilities.

Future-Ready Design: Its deep-draft configuration enables accommodation of next-generation container vessels, ensuring long-term relevance.

Global Connectivity: Positioned on the west coast near Mumbai, the port will serve as a key node in the India-Middle East-Europe Economic Corridor (IMEC) and facilitate trade with Europe, the Middle East, Africa, the Far East, and the Americas.

Transhipment Hub Potential: By reducing reliance on foreign ports, Vadhvan is expected to lower shipping costs and improve efficiency.

Economic Impact: The project is projected to generate millions of jobs and contribute to a 1% increase in Maharashtra's GDP.

Global Ranking: With its scale and strategic location, Vadhvan has the potential to rank among the world's top 10 container ports.

Mr Wagh also touched upon the port's sustainability & community engagement:

Green Infrastructure: The port is being developed with a strong focus on sustainability, including solar energy and electric terminal vehicles, in line with India's green hydrogen mission.

Community Inclusion: Developers are actively engaging with local fishing communities to address concerns related to livelihoods and environmental impact.

Mr Wagh also celebrated JNPA's achievement of a 0.9-day turnaround time, made possible through digitalisation and infrastructure modernisation, placing India ahead of advanced economies like the US, Germany and Canada.

This milestone was achieved through targeted efforts to reduce dwell time, supported by a mindset shift across stakeholders.

Highlighting the One Nation One Port Process (ONOP), he said it is aimed at standardising operations across India's major ports. By harmonising documentation and procedures, ONOP is expected to minimise delays and ensure uniform efficiency nationwide.

In closing, Mr Wagh expressed strong confidence in Maharashtra's maritime leadership, declaring that the state is poised to lead India's maritime sector for the next 50 years, thanks to its visionary port infrastructure and strategic initiatives.

Wide-ranging participation

MALA 2025 was marked by the presence of stakeholders from the public and private sectors, as well as key dignitaries from overseas. Among the attendees were:
